

Greek Throne To Be Offered To Prince Paul

Dead King's Younger Brother To Be Called and Father's Pension Will Be Restored if He Approves Conditions

Coudouriotis for Regent

"I Will Leave Matter in the Hands of Father," Says Royal Son Selected to Rule

ATHENS, Oct. 26. (By The Associated Press.)—The throne of Greece, made vacant by the death of King Alexander, will be offered to Prince Paul, third son of former King Constantine, it is officially announced.

The funeral of the late King will take place Friday afternoon. The Chamber of Deputies will be convened Thursday.

The cabinet assembled immediately after the death of the King last evening and drew up a message to the people expressing the grief felt at the monarch's death, and adding:

"In conformity with the constitutional order of succession the younger brother of King Alexander, Prince Paul, is called to succeed him. However, in view of his absence and the relations existing between the nation and the house of ex-King Constantine, the government has decided, in conformity with Article 50 of the constitution, to convene the Chamber just adjourned to proceed to the election of a regent until the arrival of the new King."

Ministers to Rule Nation

"Meanwhile, and until the oath is administered to the regent in compliance with the same article of the constitution, the royal and constitutional powers will be exercised by the Council of Ministers."

The cabinet decided that King Alexander's body shall lie in state Wednesday.

Admiral P. Coudouriotis, former Minister of Marine, is believed to be the government official most favored for the appointment as Regent. He was formerly a member of the Salonica government, and is known to be friendly to the Entente.

Elections, at which will be chosen members of the new National Assembly, have been postponed one week, it is announced. They were to have been held on November 8.

It is believed that the tender of the throne to Prince Paul will carry with it the condition that former King Constantine formally abdicate and that Prince Paul's elder brother, Prince George, must renounce his rights to the throne.

It is probable that King Constantine will at first refuse to meet these conditions, but it is understood Premier Venizelos will produce arguments of some importance. Constantine's financial status is well known, and it is the understanding that the Premier will agree to restore the former King's suppressed pension if the above terms are accepted.

Only in the event of Constantine's persistent refusal would there be a question of the establishment of a republic, but it is known Premier Venizelos is of the opinion that Greece has not yet ripe for that form of government.

Prince Paul Non-Committal

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 26. Prince Paul was non-committal when asked recently by a newspaper correspondent whether he would accept the Greek throne in the event of the death of his father, the late King Constantine. "I will leave the matter in the hands of my father," he replied.

Prince Paul is tall, slim and well built. He is democratic in manner and has many friends in Switzerland. He has given expression to no special political opinions while here. Like his father, Alexander, he is a keen sportsman and is particularly fond of tennis, rowing and dancing.

Prince Paul probably will represent his father and family at the funeral of the late King.

Former King Constantine burst into tears to-day upon learning of the death of King Alexander, news of which was received last night, although it was withheld from the deposed monarch until this morning. The former King has not seen his son in several years.

The question of the Greek dynasty has occupied the attention of Constantine since his son's illness became desperate, and the former ruler has conferred frequently with the former Greek Foreign Minister, Georgios Streit, who is understood to have been directing the campaign for the restoration of Constantine to the throne.

It is understood that the marriage of Prince George, Duke of Sparta and eldest son of former King Constantine, to Princess Elizabeth of Rumania, has been indefinitely postponed.

French Back Venizelos In Calling Paul to Rule

PARIS, Oct. 26. At the French Foreign Office it was said to-day that the French government is quite in agreement with the policy of Premier Venizelos in offering the Greek throne to Prince Paul, as he is the logical as well as the dynastic successor to the late King Alexander, owing to the elimination of former King Constantine and Prince George from the succession.

The French government, it was said, is convinced that the alternative of a foreign prince is not realizable owing to the fact that "no foreign prince is acceptable, as those available will be that of watchful waiting, it was added, and as the French government does not anticipate any menacing move from Constantine, it will not take any action unless the latter should attempt to return to Greece, when "it would take such measures as it deemed proper to prevent the return of Constantine to the throne."

The cabinet to-day designated General Franchet d'Esperey, former commander in chief of the Allied forces in the Near East, to represent France at the funeral of King Alexander.

Germany Surprises League Council With 10 Treaties

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The German government, somewhat to the surprise of the council of the League of Nations, has sent to the league offices in London ten treaties or diplomatic agreements entered into by Germany with various powers since January 10, it was said here to-day. This step was taken in consequence of the circular invitation sent to all the governments of the world except that of Soviet Russia by order of the league council at its meeting in Rome in March.

The treaties and agreements are the Franco-German agreement concerning the harbor of Kehl, on the Rhine; the Franco-German exchange of notes respecting Article 205 of the Treaty of Versailles; Swedish-German notes of March 31 on a German-Swedish commercial treaty; an agreement with the Latvian Republic about the exchange of prisoners; an agreement with the effect between Germany and Hungary; the Franco-German protocol for execution of Article 68 of the Treaty of Versailles; an agreement between Germany and the Russian Soviet for the exchange of nationals; an agreement with various states concerning the preservation or reestablishment of rights in industrial property affected by the World War; further agreements with Soviet Russia relating to the exchange of nationals; and, finally, a treaty with Latvia on the resumption of relations.

Harding Denies He Is Dealing With Lenine

On the question of political recognition. This attitude has been stated in unmistakable terms."

Cabinet Hastily Summoned

Secretary of State Coby at the afternoon conference with newspaper men, informally discussed the Vanderlip case and promised that an official statement would be soon forthcoming from the department. The statement was issued after 8 o'clock to-night, four hours after the newspaper conference.

In the meantime, the President had hastily summoned his Cabinet to the White House at 4:30 o'clock and an hour's session was held, ostensibly over the manner in which the Vanderlip matter should be disseminated.

At the afternoon conference with newspaper men, Secretary Coby did not disguise the fact that the Administration considered the report from Commissioner Young to deal with the subject of grave importance. He frankly permitted the inference to be drawn that Senator Harding was dickering with the Soviet officials with a view to extending recognition in the event of his election.

Though admitting that the report came to the department six days ago, Secretary Coby did not communicate its contents to Senator Harding and no effort was otherwise made to obtain from Harding any explanation of the report.

Chandler Makes Denial

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—It was said in this city to-day by Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, on behalf of the syndicate represented by Washington D. Vanderlip, now in Copenhagen, that Mr. Vanderlip represents purely personal business interests here and elsewhere in the West. He said that Mr. Vanderlip and those he represents have no connection, either personal or political, with Senator Harding and that their interest in the Siberian venture is a purely commercial enterprise without political significance. Mr. Chandler is one of the syndicate.

The New York bureau of the Russian Soviet government yesterday made public a cablegram said to have been received from Moscow confirming the report that Washington D. Vanderlip, representing Western capitalists, had concluded an arrangement with the present regime in Russia for the development of natural resources in northeastern Siberia.

At the New York office of Edward L. Doheny, one of the capitalists mentioned in the cablegram, it was said that Mr. Doheny was a member of a group which had grubstaked Mr. Vanderlip two years ago for making a trip of exploration and prospecting into Siberia. No report had been received by Mr. Doheny as to the result of Mr. Vanderlip's trip, it was said, though details were expected in a few days. The statement in the cablegram that the Vanderlip syndicate may become fiscal agents of the Soviet government in America could not be confirmed.

The Soviet Cablegram

The cablegram from the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Moscow, as given out by the local Soviet bureau, is as follows:

"On October 22 there was announced the consummation of the deal proposed by the Vanderlip syndicate, comprising Vanderlip, Barnet, Harry Chandler, Sartori, Le Phillips, Fishburn, Edward L. Doheny, Gibbon, Jayne, Whittier, Stewart and Braun, all Pacific Coast capitalists. The syndicate acquires a sixty-year lease of territory east of the 160th meridian, including Kamchatka, an area of 400,000 square miles, with exclusive rights to exploit coal, oil and fisheries."

"Vast oil strata and bituminous coal deposits have been discovered in this territory. The syndicate expects to take possession and commence operations in the spring of 1921. The same syndicate is also acquiring a lease, with the right to purchase, of the Seattle waterfront property purchased by the czar's government. Negotiations are proceeding successfully whereby this syndicate will become the fiscal agent in America, financing purchases up to $500,000,000, all purchases to be made through your office."

"TCHITCHERIN."

The names given in the cablegram are those of California capitalists, including Mr. Chandler.

At the Soviet Bureau it was said that this is merely the beginning of the development of Russia by outside capital, an issue which has caused much criticism of the Russian government and its policies.

"Russians have been divided on this question," said K. Durant, representing Mr. Martens. "There has been strong argument against allowing any capital into Russia from the outside. The government heads have maintained that Russian resources can be developed in no other way. Evidently this view of the situation has been accepted. Swedish capitalists made the first overtures, along the line of Russian development, but their proposition finally was rejected, as the money was not forthcoming. English papers some time ago said Lloyd George was letting American capitalists get the start on British capital in Soviet Russia."

According to a typewritten statement issued from the Soviet Bureau, commenting on the concessions said to have been obtained by Mr. Vanderlip, "the Soviet government has always insisted that Russia needed the assistance of outside forces, and that, moreover, the rest of the world could not get on without Russia." The statement further said that foreign capitalists taking up concessions in Soviet Russia will be required to conform to the laws of that government "respecting the protection of labor and the democratic management of industry."

First News From London

The first news regarding any American activities in Siberia was printed in yesterday's papers in a dispatch from London saying that Mr. Vanderlip had called the information from Copenhagen.

Washington A. Vanderlip is from Hollywood, Calif. Last September reports came to this country that he was negotiating with the Soviet government seeking to open trade relations. The name Frank A. Vanderlip figured in the dispatches through error and brought a denial from him that he was in any way seeking to open trade relations with the Russian government. Denials were also made in behalf of the National City Bank and of the United Steel Steel Corporation of ports from London that they were linked with such a movement.

Soviet Russia Ratifies Preliminary Peace Plan

Poland Refuses to Assist General Wrangel and the Forces of Reaction, Moscow Reports

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Ratification of the preliminary peace treaty between Poland and Bolshevik Russia was voted by the All-Russian Soviet yesterday, according to a wireless dispatch from Moscow. George Tchitcherin, Bolshevik Foreign Minister, explained the compact and declared Poland had refused assistance to General Baron Wrangel, head of the anti-Bolshevik government of South Russia. He also asserted Poland had agreed not to lend aid to forces of reaction in Russia.

These agreements on the part of Poland, he said, were compromise measures which had been gained at the price of territorial concessions to the Polish government.

Trainloads of German Soldiers Enter Lithuania

WARSAW, Oct. 25.—Thousands of rifles and machine guns, with some artillery, are reported to have been transported from East Prussia into Lithuania recently and trainloads of German soldiers are going there, according to information reaching Warsaw from Vilna and elsewhere to-day.

Bases Fight for Place in House of Lords on Legislation Equalizing Sexes

LONDON, Oct. 26. The petition which Viscountess Rhondra has sent to King George, asking him to order a writ summoning her to sit as a member of the House of Lords, asserts that recent legislation equalizes the positions of the sexes. The viscountess is a peeress in her own right. She reiterates that she wishes to participate in legislation.

Charges Noblemen Spend Funds Sent To U. S. Creditors

New York Firm Asks an Injunction to Restrain Russian Embassy From Using Money of Omsk Regime

Charges that the Russian Embassy in Washington is using part of $6,000,000, sent by the Omsk All-Russian government to pay American creditors, to pay salaries to Russian noblemen now in this country, were made before Justice McAvoy in the Supreme Court yesterday.

Phelan Beale, who made the allegations, appeared before Justice McAvoy as counsel for the MacGregor Grant Corporation of New York, seeking an injunction to enjoin S. Ughet, Financial Attaché of the Russian Embassy, from paying out any moneys on deposit in the National City Bank, except to Claude Nankivel or the MacGregor Grant Corporation of which Mr. Nankivel is an officer.

Mr. Beale said that of the Russian noblemen receiving an allowance from the Washington Embassy is Prince Caticucene, who is married to a granddaughter of General U. S. Grant. The prince, the attorney said, is receiving $100,000 a month.

$100,000 Claim for Autos

Mr. Nankivel and his corporation have a claim of $100,000 for automobiles shipped to Russia in 1917. Shipment was made to the Russian Asiatic Bank at Vladivostok, and was seized by Admiral Kolchak head of the Omsk All-Russian government, under a regulation to be paid later, when that government provided funds in the United States to pay American creditors. Mr. Beale told the court that copies of correspondence between Ambassador Baklanoff and Mr. Ughet, his financial attaché in New York, showed that $6,000,000 had been sent by the Omsk government to meet obligations here. This money, the attorney said, was placed in the National City Bank and with Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Instead of being used for its intended purpose, Mr. Beale charged, after the collapse of the Omsk government and the execution of Admiral Kolchak, the fund was used to establish a bureau of information in connection with the Russian Embassy at Washington and for the payment of salaries to various Russian noblemen in the United States. The attorney expressed the fear that none of the $6,000,000 will be left to pay his client's judgment if he should obtain one. Therefore, he sought a restraining order to prevent Mr. Ughet from paying out any more money.

Smarting under her rejection the viscountess set out to get revenge. "I now regard it as my mission in life to get into the House of Lords," she told a correspondent of The Tribune.

Lady Rhondra's efforts to obtain membership in the House of Lords date back more than a year, or since before Viscountess Astor began her campaign for election to the House of Commons. Largely as a result of the efforts of the viscountess a Parliamentary bill dealing with the disability of women was amended to provide for the admission of peeresses to the House of Lords. The House of Commons passed the bill with comparative ease. Lady Rhondra's clause, but assented to the other provisions of the measure.

Claims Diplomatic Immunity

Frederic R. Condit, appearing for the Russian financial attaché, said Mrs. Ughet was protected from legal process by virtue of diplomatic immunity.
